

Nike Battery NY-20 Lloyd Harbor, NY

Located on Long Island's picturesque north shore, Nike site NY-20 was a typical three-magazine Nike installation. The base was first activated during January 1957 and was manned by the Regular Army until 1960, when the New York Army National Guard took over. Site NY-20 was never upgraded to fire Nike Hercules missiles and air defense operations had ceased by 1963. Subsequent to its closure, both the control and launcher areas came into private ownership and were completely demolished.

Location	Radar Types
Launcher Area: Lloyd Harbor, NY	ACQR
Control Area: Lloyd Harbor, NY	Unit Information
Dates of Operation 1957-1963	Army - A/66th (1957-1958) A/155th (1958-1960)
Weapons Systems & Missile Load Nike Ajax / 30 Nike Hercules / 0	National Guard - HHB/1245th (1959-1963) A/1245th (1960-1963)
Missile Magazines 3 Magazines. 1 type "B" and 2 type "C".	Present Status Obliterated. The former Nike Ajax base was sold at auction during the late 1960s and subsequently demolished. The only vestiges of this missile site are portions of the metal perimeter fence.

SEE 172 FS 517 J.A. EDWARDS v. BERGMAN CONSTRUCTION (1959)

Next Site | Previous Site | Site List | Home